

DRAGGED TO A STABLE

Lahler Farris's Story of Brutal Assault and Robbery.

Three Men Under Arrest on Her Complaint.

They Deny the Woman's Story, but Are Held.

James McEveery, twenty years old, a printer, of 114 East Fifty-second street...

The complainant is Lahler Farris, a bookman woman, employed as a domestic at Third avenue and Forty-second street.

She alleges that last night she met McEveery and McGuire on Third avenue and Fifty-third street, and that they seized her by the arms and forcibly took her to the stable at 221 East Fifty-third street...

Shortly afterwards Nolan came upstairs, and all three men assaulted her brutally, and to assistance came in answer to her outcries.

When she persisted in shouting for help the men, she says, raised her by the hair of her head and threw her out of the door of the stable.

After Miss Farris left the stable she discovered she had lost a gold ring, a pair of gloves, a handkerchief, a parasol and a pocketbook containing $5.

She told the officer of this loss, and he found the handkerchief and glove in Nolan's possession, but the other property had disappeared.

Nolan told Judge Burke this morning that the woman came to the stable last night with McEveery and McGuire of her own accord, went upstairs of her own free will, and made no outcry or resistance at any time.

He said he found the handkerchief and gloves on the floor after she went out, and that he knew nothing about the rest of the property.

The prisoners were held in $5,000 bail each for the action of the Grand Jury.

AFTER "MUD-GUTTER" BANDS. Liberty Musical Union Trying to Oust Them from Brooklyn.

A circular has just been prepared by Liberty Musical Local Union No. 5,877, American Federation of Labor, which within a few days will be distributed in Brooklyn, calling attention to the unfair competition of the itinerant musicians generally known as "mud-gutter bands" against which the resident musicians have to contend.

The residents of Brooklyn are asked in the circular to aid the Union in routing the Union of these bands, on the ground that they are composed of foreigners, and are brought here under salary from Germany or Austria by leaders, who take such orders from societies as come along at prices that are simply ruinous.

GOSSIPY PARIS PASSENGERS.

A. M. Palmer and Others Tell What They Will Do.

Lottie Collins Has a New Song to Sing to the Americans.

There was a big crowd of celebrities ranged along the rail of the American liner Paris when she was warped into her dock at 140th street this morning.

Among the first to step ashore was Manager A. M. Palmer, who has returned from his recent tour of the country of France, and who will be the center of attraction of the Parisian crowd that will be on the pier.

Mr. Palmer said he had got several new plays in his trunk, but the best, in his opinion, was a comedy opera, "Monsieur Beaucaire," which he thought was the best thing in London.

Mr. Palmer said he would not go to the races, but would go to the theatre very soon.

He said there was no truth in the reports that he was to be the leader of the Parisian crowd, and that he was only going to give up his American citizenship.

Mr. Palmer said he was going to give up his American citizenship, and that he was only going to give up his American citizenship.
